City Council election, Rover, 'Imagine A Day Without Water' and more 'In the City' this month

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. – Can you “Imagine A Day Without Water”? Join the Murfreesboro Water Resources Department’s high school video contest. The September episode of ‘In the City’ with Michael Linn White also features information on CPR training, Rover, and the recent City Council elections. The Sept. 2020 edition with Michael Linn White is available on YouTube at <https://youtu.be/YbQpkpCOs4I>.

The Sept. 2020 edition of “In the City,” airing on CityTV throughout the month, features:

- The Murfreesboro City Council welcomes a new member. “In the City” has election result reaction. The new face is Shawn Wright. Hear reaction from Wright along with comments from re-elected members Bill Shacklett and Kirt Wade <https://youtu.be/LWCR6ijSae4>.
- Since 2007, Rover, the City’s transit system, has provided safe and reliable transportation to citizens and visitors, including workers from Nashville and surrounding communities who transfer from RTA to Rover buses. Rover Operations Supervisor Richard Hinton shows viewers the system used to keep the buses serviced and sanitized during Covid-19 <https://youtu.be/uKHiWHoQcSE>.
- MFRD personnel are routinely trained in Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR). Eighty percent of MFRD calls for service are medically related. Assistant Chief Jeff Wright details the requirements that firefighters must have be certified to respond to medical emergencies <https://youtu.be/cXd6FA5GqZs>.
- Founded in 1989, Rutherford County Habitat for Humanity is dedicated to eliminating substandard housing through constructing, rehabilitating and preserving homes. For the third year in a row, the local housing agency has received a grant from the Bonnaroo Works Fund to encourage recycling through the ReStore www.rchfh.org Watch video at <https://youtu.be/lbdqItS6RXQ>.
